Robert is the leader of the business and commercial law department of a law firm with deep roots in the community. He is a member of both the Ontario Bar and the Quebec Bar. Before beginning his legal career, Robert held various positions with a major financial institution. In his practice, Robert regularly represents clients in commercial transactions, mergers and acquisitions, corporate finance and real estate law.

In his interactions with his clients, Robert is practical, direct and focused on results, which he strives to achieve effectively and efficiently. He is very accessible and responds to client questions and requests for information. Originally from Montreal, Robert has been living in the Ottawa area since 2009 and enjoys getting involved in the community and taking advantage of the various opportunities that the region offers for outdoor activities such as cycling, hiking and skiing with his family. Finally, Robert is a big fan of all kinds of music and enjoys attending concerts.
